Title: Bad Eyelets
Comments: So, ordered these and they got here super-fast. Immediately got some shoe oil on and they took on the right color and suppleness. Though, when I wore them to an event that weekend, about half the eyelets on each boot ripped out of their socket. The rest of the shoe seems durable.

Title: Fast delivery so so quality

Product Reviews

Comments: The shipping was great, but found that the size info was wrong. Had to return the first pair and pay for shipping, boots were too small. Second pair is ok so far except for the fact several lace grommets came apart, the first time I laced them up! Not happy about that at all! Be at he grommets broke it ripped up the laces.

Title: Good quality overall
Comments: I like the boots pretty well. They are comfortable and appear to be well made. I only docked a star because one of the eyelets popped off, but fortunately I was able to reattach it. Hopefully that stays. Generally, I am very pleased with them, however.

Title: My girl freind wears combat boots!
Comments: I have purchased many fine things from WPG! So far the HBT's and U.S ARMY rough outs top the list. A little "cranky" to break-in, But, so are the real thing!, Suck it up, and solder on! Keep it up WPG!! can't wait to see what you fine folks come up with next. Thank you, Eric M.Paul WW2 A.P.S. & 28th Div, 110th "I"co. 51st HD, 42nd Blackwatch, 1st Bat.

Comments: I'm a retired Marine who wore the flesh out desert boots starting in the late 80's and still wore them because they are comfortable. I ordered a pair of the boonies to put with the WW2 collection. Those were so comfortable I ordered a second pair to wear every day.

Title: Roughouts

Comments: I have extremely narrow feet, but was able to buy both a heel pad and a Dr. Scholls pad and my feet don't slide around TOO much. These do look like my Dad's roughouts he wore in the South Pacific, and while mowing the yard / painting etc. The thinner leather is more comfortable than hiking boots too.
